FOSS ENTERS RACE

Congressman Cites Reasons for Entering the List Against Hopkins

FOUR CANDIDATES IN FIELD

Yates' Supporters Declare North Shore Solon is Entered in Order to Force Hopkins to Support Deneen

George Edmund Foss, who represents the Tenth Illinois district in Congress, is a candidate for United States Senator. Congressman Foss made the formal announcement Saturday.

With the Foss candidacy officially launched, there are now four candidates for this office in the field. They are: Albert J. Hopkins of Aurora, Kane county; George Edmund Foss, Chicago; William E. Mason, Chicago and William Webster, of Chicago.

Mr. Foss' friends on the north shore are not banking entirely on the Senatorship, and are circulating petitions for Mr. Foss as a candidate forrenomination as Congressman. In this way they explain, they hope to keep Mr. Foss in Congress should he lose the Senatorship fight. By running for both offices, they say he would probably land in his old place, while if lightning did strike him in the other race he could resign the congressional nomination.

Mr. Foss' announcement is as follows:

"To the Republicans of Illinois:
"I announce myself as a candidate for United States Senator, and ask the support of the Republicans of Illinois at the primaries on the eighth of August next.

"I announce myself as a candidate in response to personal appeals from a large number of republicans all over the state.

"I announce myself as a candidate in response to what I know to be the growing popular sentiment in Illinois as communicated to me in letters from every county in the state, desiring a new candidate for the position of United States Senator.

"I announce myself as a candidate in response to what I believe to be the wish on the part of the Tenth Congressional district, which I have had the honor to represent for nearly fourteen consecutive years as expressed in the following resolution adopted by the tenth congressional district convention at Chicago April 8, 1908.

"We the republicans of the tenth Congressional district, in convention assembled, do hereby indorse and commend the magnificent record in Congress of our representative, George Edmund Foss, and heartily indorse him for renomination at the coming primaries on August 8, and we especially call attention to his services in building the great American navy, and in securing for this district the location of the great naval training station, his efforts in not only securing this institution for our district, but in carrying out the work to successful completion, are heartily indorsed and fully appreciated, and we hope to continue him as Representative in Congress from this district until he is called to higher honors by the state or nation.

"I have been a republican all my life, and have always stood by the principles of the Republican party, and I point to my record of seven congressional terms as the surest proof of my loyalty to that party. I stand upon the platform just adopted by the Republican National convention, which declares unflinching adherence to the policies inaugurated by Theodore Roosevelt and pledges their continuance under a Republican administration of the government.

"If I am elected Senator I shall give my whole time and attention to the people. They shall be my only client. A servant of the people I shall serve no other interests.

"To be a senator from Illinois is the highest position in the gift of the people of the state, and no man is worthy of such position who forgets that in a large and true sense he should be the representative of the character, the intelligence and the patriotism of the people of the state. He should never lose sight for one moment of the mighty obligation which rests upon him, nor fail to make his acts ever square with that obligation.

"This is the year of the people. They are now coming into their own. Under our primary law, wisely enacted by the Legislature, the people of the state of Illinois will have the opportunity to express their choice.

"To them I appeal and urge all those who are friendly to me and the principles for which I stand to organize at once in their respective communities for the coming contest. I hope to visit every county in the state.

"The time is short, but long enough for the people, realizing their responsibility and power, to make their choice upon the records of the men who present themselves for this high office."

PAINT YOUR CEMENT WALKS

Inventor Says Glare From Cement Walks Affects Eyesight

Paint the cement sidewalks a delicate shade of green.

This is what a Waukegan inventive genius is urging and to clinch his point he is trying to mix a chemical paint that can be applied to the walks after they have been laid and are seasoned for use, believing there is a mint of money in the idea.

"The comparatively bright and glaring colors of the cement walks, especially when new and white, are working untold harm to the eyes of Waukegan," he declared, "and the oculist is reaping such a harvest as he never dreamed of before.

"The old wooden walks were of a dull color and did not injure the eyes, but the cement walks catch and hold the sunlight and the heat and shoot them back at the eyes with the force of a pitched bill, the strong glare affecting the eyes disastrously in my opinion.

"I favor a green as a paint for the walks, because I find that authorities consider it a most restful shade for the eye and that is what we want."

If the Waukegan genius' theory is worked out and he succeeds in producing his paint, it may not be many days before the cement walks of Waukegan will be coated with green, edged in gold, with the family coat of arms worked out in the middle and borders of posies around the edges.

HOLDUP AT NAVAL STATION

John Ferry, watchman at the United States naval training school reservation just south of North Chicago, was held up and robbed by a gang of thugs at 9 o'clock Wednesday night.

Ferry was making the rounds and had reached the main bridge over the ravine intersecting Pettibone's when two ruffians sprang out at him from the covert, knocked him down on the flooring of the bridge and proceeded to rifle the dazed man's pocket.

Their search was fruitless as Ferry carried nothing of value to the two, so they made off as fast as their legs could carry them and were soon lost in the leafy darkness of the reservation.

Ferry called for help and was later found by Peter Yde, another watchman. The grounds were then beaten up in a search for the desperadoes but no trace was found of them.

At the crossing of the railroad a gang of tramps was found camping and into this the watchmen plunged to try to find Ferry's assailants. The search was fruitless, as while the tramps were rough enough looking and tough enough of disposition, Ferry could make no identification and the chase had to be dropped.

Ferry patrols the officer's quarters, four large buildings, and was caught at a disadvantage on the bridge comparatively early in the evening.

The tramps were ordered away from the reservation.

LIGHTNING STRUCK COUNTY FAIR'S MAIN BUILDING

A bolt of lightning that residents declare looked like a gigantic ball of fire that split upon the roof late Saturday night, struck the main exposition building at the Lake County fair grounds at Libertyville, started a fire and before any aid could be rendered, the building valued at between $2,000 and $3,000, was a mass of charred embers.

Half burned shingles from the roof of the frame structure were found the distance of a mile away and had not the other buildings on the grounds and in the village itself been wet with the heavy and record breaking rain, the town would have been a smoking chaos.

There is no water supply on the fair grounds, so that although the entire village volunteer fire department turned out all were powerless and had to watch the structure burn.

The rain fell in torrents and this is undoubtedly what saved the village of Libertyville from being wiped off the map as the winds were high and shifting continually.

The building is covered by $300 insurance. The fair association board meets next week and it is probable that plans will be made for immediate rebuilding.

The Chicago and Milwaukee electric railroad depot at Libertyville was struck twice by lightning, each time fire started but was extinguished by the rain before much damage was done.

Literary Note.

This paragraph from a Georgia exchange: "He made enough out of the literary business to buy a ten-acre farm and a Georgia mule, and now he has decided to settle down to genuine business. We have known lots of literary fellows, but this is the only instance where one ever got rich enough at it to invest in this way."

DISCOVER DYNAMITE BOMB

Attempt is Made to Blow Open the Vault of Dowie's Grave

CARETAKER JUST ESCAPES

Young Girl Discovers Stick of Dynamite of Sufficient Force to Wreck Half of the City

Living, John Alexander Dowie, self-anointed prophet and founder of Zion City, succumbed to the implacable hatred of his enemies. Eight months of death has evidently not cooled that passionate feeling of resentment among some of his opponents and enemies, since late Tuesday afternoon a stick of dynamite, sufficient to work havoc and destruction to thousands of Zion City residents and buildings, was accidentally discovered near the tombstone of the deceased ruler.

The find was made by Miss Beatrice Hanson, an employe of the Zion City lace factory, and it is only a miracle that the innocent girl was not sacrificed to satiate the ghoulish intentions of the unknown miscreants.

Since John Alexander Dowie's death, Miss Hanson, one of Zion's most beautiful young ladies, has been a faithful caretaker of his grave. It was her custom to place floral tributes on the tomb of the man in whose doctrines she most implicitly believed. Tuesday afternoon, armed with rake, she set out for the cemetery to rake the debris off the plot and to care for the flowers which she had set out but the day before.

While raking the ground she observed a peculiar black stick half buried in the ground.

The rake, which she still held in her hand, had just passed within a few inches of what was afterwards discovered to be the percussion cap of a stick of dynamite.

The contact of the steel point of the rake on the sensitive cap, which was loaded with smokeless powder, would have blown the young girl to atoms and effectually wrecked the grave of the former Zion leader.

A feeling of intuition warned the girl that something was wrong and she looked up the sexton and informed him of the "queer looking stick" which she had unearthed near the grave.

The old gray haired sexton, guided by the young lady, hastened to the grave where the object of destruction was pointed out to him.

The old follower of the former leader cautioned the young lady to keep at a safe distance and himself was almost prostrated with the thoughts of what might have happened.

"They have called him names behind his back, they have slandered him, and now they are not satisfied, they would blow his remains from the ground with dynamite. Oh, it is awful." This is a similar quotation to that reported to have been used by the sexton at the time of the finding of the dynamite.

Fear for the loss of his own life did not daunt the old favorite of the fallen leader. He carefully removed the earth from around the stick of dynamite and lifted it out as gently as possible.

The dynamite was carried to John A. Lewis, acknowledged leader of Zion hosts by the Dowie will which is on file in the local court house, who pronounced it to be of sufficient force and quality to have blown up half the city.

At the time of Dowie's death resentment was strong against him and it was necessary to keep an armed guard around his grave for some months, but lately it was thought that this feeling had died out and the guard was released from further service.

The cement vault in which the remains of the ruler were sealed was made by the Baitrows of Waukegan, who are of the opinion that it would have taken a larger quantity of dynamite to blow the vault open.

There is absolutely no clue to the criminals, although the busy police chief of Zion, Captain Walker, has worked steadily on the case.

Contrary.

"There's no pleasin' a woman," remarked Mr. Jimpson, "when she's feelin' cantankerous. Says I to my wife the other night, when I seen that she was sore at things in gin'ral and in particular, says I: 'My dear, you're prettier 'n you was when I first knew you.' An' says she: 'That's right, throw it up to me that I useter be a homely girl!'"

LURES GIRL TO HOTEL

Police Arrest Carl Dowse and Bertha Rousseau on a Disorderly Charge

DOWSE IS FINED $200

The Girl was Invited to go for a Buggy Ride and When They Reached Waukegan was Lured to Hotel

Carl Dowse, a prominent and industrious farmer who resides a few miles south of Kenosha on Sheridan road in company with Miss Bertha Rousseau, the fourteen year old daughter of Peter Rousseau, who is employed as a farm hand near Russell, were arrested Sunday evening at eight o'clock at Waukegan on a disorderly charge.

Mr. Dowse, in whose employ the girl had worked as a kitchen mechanic for the past eight months, invited the young lady to partake of a buggy ride to Waukegan Sunday afternoon. The young girl thought nothing of being invited and accepted the invitation. They drove to the state line near Winthrop Harbor, where their horse and rig were left in the State Line livery stable.

Mr. Dowse, although 25 years of age, induced the girl to occupy a room in a hotel with him for the evening. The girl probably not knowing better accepted the invitation. The couple set out to locate a hotel.

Dropping into the Mackenzie drug store the man inquired of the proprietor for the best hotel in the city.

Mr. Dowse's actions at that time seemed rather out of the ordinary and the proprietor notified Chief Tyrrell, who immediately dispatched to police officers to watch the couple.

The couple gave the officers the slip however, before they received their orders from the chief, but a clew to their whereabouts was soon picked up when Frank Tryon notified Chief Tyrrell that he had seen the couple enter a hotel.

Night Captain Vogel was dispatched to the hotel and later the manager of the place informed the couple that they would be required to leave.

The couple were arrested in front of the Sauter building on Genesee street, when Chief Tyrrell heard the man warn the girl not to tell anybody who she was and to tell them that she was his sister and that they lived in Chicago.

Chief Tyrrell arrested the couple on the spot, Dowse being locked up in the city jail over night and the girl being given board in the county jail.

Monday morning a disorderly charge was preferred against the couple, State's Attorney Hanna acting as the prosecuting attorney.

Dowse was found guilty and held under a fine of $200 or forty days in the county jail.

Miss Rousseau's parents it was learned had not cared for her in the past few years. The girl was compelled to earn wages enough to support herself, as her mother died some years ago and her father is supposed to be working near Russell, although the girl claims that she has not heard from him in over two years.

Miss Rousseau was living with her sister prior to her acceptance of the position as the kitchen mechanic at the Dowse farm.

TOWN LINE ROAD CASE IS SETTLED

By a decision of the state supreme court, rendered Friday, affirming the decision of the local circuit court in the case of Schlosser vs. The Highway Commissioners of Warren, the famous town line road case is settled at last.

The case was really that of the town of Newport against the town of Warren over the establishment of a road between the two townships and Newport wins.

The matter has dragged along for some months and has been hard fought, but the supreme court brings the whole case to an end.

DROWNED AT GAGES LAKE

Archibald Coombs, an Oak Park Lad Meets Death Saturday Afternoon

A few minutes after Archibald John Coombs of Oak Park had arrived at his father's summer cottage on the shore of Gages Lake, near Grayslake, Ill., he was lying dead on the shore.

Young Coombs and his cousin, George Coombs, arrived at the lake Saturday afternoon and immediately hurried into the water for a swim. Both were good swimmers. "Archie" was 21 and George is 16 years old. They had been in the water only a moment when the elder lad suddenly screamed with a cramp and sank. His cousin swam out and tried to save him but after a hard struggle was forced to give up. The body was recovered soon afterward.

The young man was a clerk in the First National Bank and lived with his father at 312 Harvey avenue, Oak Park.

The drowning was witnessed by most of the junior class of the Waukegan high school, who were spending the day picnicking at the lake. As soon as the cries for help were made by the drowning boy's companion, the boys and Prof. Klein rowed to the spot where he went down with as much speed as possible, but were unable to do anything except look for the body at the bottom of the lake, which could not be found, although continual efforts were made to get the body by diving.

The drowning happened at about 2:30 and cast a gloom over the picnickers who felt sorry because of the accident.

The two boys, George and Archie Coombs, had passed the Porter cottage just before they went in swimming and had a few minutes conversation with some of the junior class girls.

The cries of the drowning boy could be heard all around the lake and was recognized as a cry for help immediately as the boys in swimming had been yelling in fun during the swim.

Everett Wilbur and Everett Kraft went to Waukegan at highest speed in Wilbur's automobile to get a tank of oxygen in hopes that if the boy had lost his life by drowning the oxygen might bring back his life, but when he was brought ashore the examination made by the doctor present showed that not a particle of water was in his lungs and therefore must have met death before he went under either by heart failure or some other quick death.

YAWL CAPSIZES; TWO SOLDIERS ARE DROWNED

By the capsizing of a small yawl off Fort Sheridan reservation Friday morning privates Field and Worth were drowned. Both were from the 27th infantry, company L.

Field and Worth were out on the lake in a small duck boat, taking exercise when bystanders say one of the air chambers collapsed and the boat, gave way like an eggshell, throwing the two soldiers, neither of whom could swim, into the water.

Neither could swim and there was no one within five hundred feet to give aid, so the two sank beneath the waves within sight of a horrified group.

The bodies have not yet been recovered according to officials at the fort but a search is now on. A life saving boat from Evanston and another vessel from Waukegan were on the scene dragging the lake but their efforts were unavailing.

The Three Brothers of Waukegan, the Gamash boat, was ordered down to the scene by Harbormaster Larsen. The two soldiers were out fishing.

In heavy seas that followed high winds on the lake, making it dangerous for travel in light boats, an unknown yawl capsized off Fort Sheridan after a terrible experience.

WOODMEN RAISE SALARIES OF THEIR OFFICERS

A general salary raise for the head officers and directors of the Modern Woodmen of America was made by the head camp at its triennial meeting at Peoria.

The salary of the head consul was increased from $5,000, to $10,000. The salary of the head clerk was raised from $4,500 to $7,500, head banker from $3,600 to $5,000 and the five directors from $15 a day for the time spent to $5,000 per year.

The annual per capita tax of members was raised $1.00 to $1.20. The minimum annual tax for the salary of local clerks was raised 60 cents to $1.00 per member.

The following officers were elected: Head Consul, A. R. Talbot, Lincoln, Neb.; Head Advisor, Daniel B. Horne, Davenport, Ia.; Head Clerk, Maj. C. W. Hawes, Rock Island, Ill.; head banker, F. B. Korns, Des Moines, Ia.; directors, E. E. Murphy, Leavenworth, Kan., C. J. Byrns, Ishpeming, Mich., R. R. Smith, Brookfield, Mo., Dr. J. A. Rutledge, Elgin, Ill., and A. N. Bort, Beloit, Wis.

The next triennial meeting of the head camp will be held at Buffalo, N. Y., in 1911.

WOMAN STARVED TO DEATH

Mrs. Louisa Thompson, Wife of Zion Leader, Dies After Period of Fasting

REFUSED DRINK OF WATER

Police Start Investigation and Husband Flees the City—Matter is Being Thoroughly Investigated

State's Attorney Hanna was Monday called upon to make an investigation, if he thought circumstances justified it, into the mysterious death of Mrs. Thompson of Twenty-ninth street, Zion City, and an inquiry may result that will end in a sensation bigger than that in the Greenhalgh case.

Adam Thompson, an itinerant evangelist of the so-called Pilgrim Brotherhood, is accused of having starved his wife to death by forcing her into a forty-one day fast in order to cure a cancer of the breast, from which she had suffered for two years.

Mrs. Thompson died last Thursday and the death has set in motion a train of gossip exceeding that in connection with the Greenhalgh case.

The whole story developed when a difference arose between occupants of the same house Sunday. Mrs. Darling rents rooms to a Mrs. E. K. Hunter, who says she is the wife of "Judge" Hunter of Burnham, Ill., near Hammond, Ind. Mrs. Hunter is a Thompsonite and when she refused to vacate her rooms an argument ensued and finally Mrs. Darling summoned Capt. Walker of the Zion City police, to take freely, and the uncovering of the latest horror was the result.

A reporter visited the Thompson home and drew the story out of the occupants of the house, who to defend their own position talked readily.

Thompson came to Zion City it seems in the trail of Mrs. Hunter, who had met him at Burnham and liked his teachings. He had come to visit the Darlings, with whom the Hunters and another family, the Funks, reside, and finally brazenly camped there, living off contributions and occupying rooms.

"I firmly believe that Thompson starved his wife to death," said Mrs. Darling to a reporter.

"I was present when she died and I am ready to swear that he refused to give her a drink of water, although she had been fasting, eating absolutely nothing, for forty-one days.

"For forty-one days and forty-one nights, following her husband's commands, Mrs. Thompson did not partake of food of any sort or description.

"Her's was a complete fast and as the end neared she was fearfully pale and wasted, unable to move, unable to talk beyond a whisper. She cried for water continually and her husband refused to give her a drink or to let others give it to her. "She died in this very room"—indicating a stuffy little room where it was almost impossible to breathe without difficulty—"and while the cancer may ultimately have caused her death, I believe it was more actually starvation than disease.

"Her husband told her that her soul would be chastened, purified and regenerated if she fasted long enough, and that the cancer was a sign that she had sinned. Mrs. Hunter then told the reporter that Thompson's teachings in essence are that if one is unmarried one should stay so and that if one is married husband and wife should live merely as brother and sister and there should be no children.

"Mr. Thompson is a holy man," she declared. "He has shown me the light and many others have seen it through him. He came here from California. I first met him at Burnham, Ill., and he followed me here." Mrs. Thompson is a woman in the fifties.

Mrs. Funk, another resident of the Darling home, and one of those ordered out of the premises, told substantially the same story. She also stated that she is a follower of Thompson's, but states that she is no believer in the spiritual marriage part of it.

She admitted that she had left her husband and two children to come to Zion and follow the hidden truths and says that her family is at Bloomington, Ind.

Captain Walker stated that in his opinion Mrs. Thompson had been starved to death. "They tell me," he said, "that all manner of food was refused. Mrs. Thompson by her husband, who told her that she must not eat as by abstinence her soul would be regenerated and she would come 'into the light.' She had a cancer and this undoubtedly aided in her death, but I believe that the grave of Mrs. Thompson shelters the story of a crime."

Thompson it was impossible to see. He was at the depot and when he saw Captain Walker approaching him he fled and later it was reported he had gone to Chicago. "Why," said Mrs. Hunter, "once he walked 1,000 miles and slept at nights in a hay stack, entirely naked, drying his clothes on the top of the stack while he slept. If you can beat that for holiness I'd like to see you."

Mr. Barnes, American

SYNOPSIS.

Burton H. Barnes, a wealthy American touring Corsica, rescues the young English lieutenant, Edward Gerard Anstruther, and his Corsican bride, Marina, daughter of the Paolis, from the murderous vendetta, understanding that his reward is to be the hand of the girl he loves, Enid Anstruther, sister of the English lieutenant. The four fly from Ajaccio to Marseilles on board the French steamer Constantine. The vendetta pursues and as the quartet are about to board the train for London at Marseilles, Marina is handed a mysterious note which causes her to collapse and necessitates a postponement of the journey. Barnes and Enid are married. Soon after their wedding Barnes' bride disappears. Barnes discovers she has been kidnapped and taken to Corsica. The groom secures a fishing vessel and is about to start in pursuit of his bride's captors when he hears a scream from the villa and rushes back to hear that Anstruther's wife, Marina, is also missing. Barnes is compelled to depart for Corsica without delay, and so he leaves the search for Marina to her husband while he goes to hunt for Enid. Just before Barnes' boat lands on Corsica's shore Marina is discovered hiding in a corner of the vessel. She explains her action by saying she has come to help Barnes rescue his wife from the Corsicans. Barnes and Marina have unusual adventures in their search for Enid. In seeking shelter from a storm the couple enter a hermitage and there to their amazement they discover Tomasso, the foster father of Marina. Tomasso learns that Marina's husband did not kill her brother. Many wrongs are righted. Barnes is surprised in the hermitage by Rochini and Romano, the two detested bandits, who have been seeking him in order to murder him for a reward. The bandits attempt to take away Marina. Barnes darts out the door. The bandits start to pursue, but as they reach the door they are laid low by Barnes' revolver. Anstruther arrives to find Marina and learns that she has been lured away by the detestable bandits which had been sent by another without his knowledge. The two start in search of Marina. Barnes and Edwin take different roads in their search. Edwin is trapped in a tower where he is made prisoner. In endeavoring to escape he opens a trap door where he finds Enid. Barnes is climbing down a wall sees upon the portico of a farm house Marina and Count Danella sitting and talking together. Barnes arrives and in the brief exchange preventing his crossing over. He hears the voice of Marina crying for mercy. He examines his revolver. Cipriano, Danella threatens to light a fuse that would blow up the tower and kill her husband unless Marina surrenders herself to his passion.

"No, life—life and love! and death to those who stand between me and her! The torch to the lone orange tree in the center of the lawn—you placed the fuse—when I give the signal to you, light it!"

"He will be blown to atoms!" screams the girl.

"Certainly, then you are free to marry me and can say your prayers with a good conscience!" laughs the count.

"My uncle, I am bound to your orders by the oath of the vendetta and thy promise to pay my gambling debts and make me rich again," said the young man. Enrico passes from the verandah and Marina sees the flame of the torch moving to the orange tree. She raises her voice and shrieks with all her force: "Edwin, my husband, you have only a minute to save your life. In some way, descend from the tower! They are going to blow it up!"

And a cry comes to her: "My wife, impossible!"

And over it are frantic curses from the American detective, and the voice of old Tomasso, crying: "It is the will of the Devil!"

Marina shouts: "I can only give you life by being this devil's!"

The answer of the young sailor comes, calm as the voice of an English officer should be facing death: "Not at that price, darling! Don't think of me!"

Then the tortured girl begins to wring her hands and sob as she sees the men in the tower struggling to break out, struggling as men in the turret of a sinking battleship. The face she adores is before her in its death agony—the weird music from the sea comes faintly to her, telling of woman's devotion, for the barbaric ballads have been selected with uncanny subtlety. For one dread moment, Marina wildly thinks: "I'll save my Edwin's life—then I'll keep myself from this crafty fiend by death in the waves from off the vessel on which he bears me away!" But the thought shoots through her: "My dear husband will believe I am a faithless and dishonored wife!"

To Cipriano, who is triumphantly murmuring: "I see, by your blushes, you're mine!" she shouts: "Never!" and desperately would run to the base of the tower and die with her husband.

But the arms of Danella encircle her, holding her firm as bands of steel. Inflamed by the propinquity of her loveliness, the contact of the perfect figure he clasps, the subtle perfume of her waving hair that tosses in tresses about, Cipriano is whispering: "You have still time, Anstruther, may yet live, I have not given the signal. Be mine! But one long, sweet kiss to prove it!"

"And never dare to look on the face of any true man or woman? No, no!" Frantically she has broken from his arms; she is running towards the torch, desperately hoping to snatch it from the hands of the satyr holding it ready to apply it to the fuse.

After one unsuccessful step to overtake her swift feet, Danella cries savagely: "Fire the mine!"

Enrico, the fuse in one hand, the blazing torch in the other, is applying the flame to it.

There is a sharp whiff of the still night air like the faint snap of a distant whip and the man with the scar falls, as if struck from Heaven.

"Diavolo, what mystery is this? Myself to light the fuse!" cries Cipriano, and runs to the flambeau flaring on the ground.

But Marina, her eyes baneful with agony, mutters: "I am a Corsican," and as he picks up the torch, the desperate girl seizes him with her delicate hands and struggles with him frantically.

But her slight strength is naught to that of his wiry frame. Danella picks up the torch. "Take your choice," he whispers. "The Englishman lives and you are my mistress; he dies, and you are my honored wife!"

He is holding her down with one knee pressed on her. He is moving the torch slowly to the fuse; he is giving her a chance to save the life she loves by despairing surrender—he is giving ling himself just one more chance to win the beauty of the woman who loathes him—when, even as the flame is licking the fuse, another whiff rends the atmosphere, and from a spot midway between his longing eyes spouts something that is red in the torch flame, and with one shrill scream, "Monte!" Cipriano, springing high in the air, falls stark dead beside Marina's prostrate form.

The detective and Edwin are thundering at the tower door. Marina staggers to it, with a great effort turns the key and lifts up the steel bars, and stands faintly leaning against the stone masonry as Edwin, springing out, catches her in his arms.

"What did it? What wondrous thing wrought our deliverance?" he asks between kisses that make the girl wife think she is in heaven.

"By gum, was it lightning?" asks the detective, scratching his head. Then hearing a cry he runs down the chasm and moves the swinging bridge into place across the crevice.

Over this comes Mr. Barnes, leisurely walking, humming the sweet romantic tune the minstrels are sending up from the distant sea.

Looking at the two dead men, Tomasso, in his old-time Corsican way, is saying solemnly: "'Tis the hand of God!"

But Marina, running to the American, cries: "I know the hand of God!" and sinks down uttering blessings on the great pistol shot.

"By Gollah, 'tain't possible to do that with a revolver in this light," mutters Emory, pacing off the distance. "Holy smoke, you should be proud of them shots."

"It was that wondrous Orezza water that did it. That toned up my nerves after two days of devilish misery," remarks Burton modestly.

"But grub's what I'm thinking about," says Emory; "you haven't been fed on spoon-victuals for two weeks!" and he dashes into the farmhouse.

Edwin, after slapping Barnes upon the back, has carried his wife, half-swooning now with joy, onto the verandah, when of a sudden, with a roar like that of a hundred-ton gun, the whole tower rises from its base and falls tumbling, a mass of ruined masonry, and on high there is a flight of rocks like fireworks. Fortunately the explosion has been so strong that the missiles nearly all fall into the sea, with great splashing of the water. They can hear the cries of terror from the minstrels in the boat as they hastily row away.

"My last shot wasn't quick enough," says the American dolefully. "Hang me, if Cip didn't get the torch to the fuse before he died." Then Barnes suddenly questions: "Where's my wife? Can't anybody tell me where is my wife?"

"She was not in that tower, anyway; that we know," answered Edwin. "We examined every portion of it, trying to escape."

"Your wife?" cries Marina. "You should know! I left you going up the stairs to her chamber in Bocognano."

"Wasn't there?" mutters Burton. "Wasn't there? My servant said she was there. Who was the lady?"

Barnes doesn't answer, but says moodily: "Then I've got to find Enid. My horse is just on the other side of the crevice."

"But you are too tired," "I'm never too tired to find my best girl," says the poor worn-out fellow, trying to be cheerful, and steps down toward the bridge.

But from a distance a pretty feminine voice is heard crying excitedly: "This is the way to the explosion, young Signore Bellacoscia!"

Then Barnes' voice rings, really happy for the first time in twenty-four hours: "Enid, that you? This way, little girl. Look out for the crevice," and his long sought-for bride comes cantering across the bridge followed by two young bandits, who announce themselves as Conrad and Rodrigo Bonelli. The next second Enid has been lifted in Barnes' arms from the saddle.

"Where have you been all this time?" he asks eagerly. "Following you ever since this morning, when the great Bellacoscia sent me on with these two gentlemen, his nephews, charging them with their lives to deliver me safe into your hands. I came from Bocognano."

"And where were you two nights ago when I was seeking you there?"

"I was asleep at Sallceti's home under the influence of a narcotic. Oh, mercy, don't look at me so," stammers Enid. "I was beneath the care of Sallceti's mother."

"Asleep under a narcotic?"

"Yes; when they were planning the ambush for you, I struggled so that Sallceti and his men forced an anodyne down my throat. When I became conscious, they told me that when the great Bellacoscia demanded my surrender Bernardo was afraid to explain to him, and some other woman was substituted for me. But when Sallceti learnt that Bonelli for his deceit had declared against him a vendetta that meant his certain death, he went to the great bandit, confessed and surrendered me to him. Whereupon, with many kind words, Bonelli sent me to his dear friend, Monsieur Barnes, of New York, the celebrated pistol shot."

"Oh, the most divine pistol shot upon earth," calls Marina, running out and embracing him. "By his skill, Burton has killed the man whose life forever would have been a menace to us." Then gazing at Barnes, she laughs: "And I supposed you happy for the last twenty-four hours. You remember I left you going up to your wife's chamber in Bocognano."

"Going up to my chamber in Bocognano?" almost yells the young English bride. "I cannot understand; I was asleep under opium in charge of Sallceti's mother."

"Oh, no, you were at my house. You were waiting for Burton in the guest chamber on the second floor. Mr. Barnes went up to you—Good gracious, Edwin, don't! Dio mio, what are you squeezing my hand so for?"

"A word in private with you, Mr. Barnes," whispers Enid in suppressed tone.

BEES MARK MAN'S COMING.

Wild Ones All Descended from Those Once Domesticated.

All the honey bees in this country having originally been imported from Europe or Asia, there is no racial difference between the wild ones and the domesticated; those that live in trees are simply the descendants of those that from time to time have taken "French leave" from their owners' hives and reverted to a state of nature. The vast bulk of the wild bees are of the German or black race, while the standard domesticated bee is the Italian; but that, however, is only because the Germans were the first to be introduced here. Just when the Germans came is in doubt, but it was some time in the seventeenth century; certainly it was not until near the close of the eighteenth century that any bees were found west of the Mississippi. The Indians used to say they could mark the advance of the white man by the appearance of bees in the woods. The Italian bees were first imported in 1860. Better tempered and more industrious than the Germans, they have become popular with apirists; but as many still keep the German bee, and others have the hybrid formed by the crossing of the two races, while countless Italians now have taken to the woods, there to breed more hybrids, it is clear that there is no sure way of distinguishing between the wild bee and the domesticated.—Outing Magazine.

SENT IT TO THE BAR.

Orchestra Leader Misread Request for Schubert's Serenade.

While dining at one of the hotels recently a Washington girl said to her escort, "I wish that orchestra would play Schubert's 'Serenade.'" "All we've got to do is to have the waiter tell the orchestra leader," said the man. "But you'd better write it. The waiter will be sure to get the message wrong if you don't." So on the back of an envelope the young woman wrote, in a beautiful angular hand her request for Schubert's "Serenade," and told the waiter to take it to the leader. The waiter was gone a long time, but at last he appeared with a foaming beaker. "It took some time," he said apologetically. "I understood you to tell me the message was for the orchestra leader, so I took it to him. He read what you wrote and then laughed and told me to carry the order to the bar, for that was the place to get a seltzer lemonade." And angular writing had scored another triumph.

YOU'RE TOO THIN.

Even Slight Catarrh Derangements of the Stomach Produce Acid Fermentation of the Food.

It's Stomach Catarrh

Some people are thin and always remain thin, from temperamental reasons. Probably in such cases nothing can be done to change this personal peculiarity.

But there are a large number of people who get thin, or remain thin, who naturally would be plump and fleshy but for some digestive derangement.

Thin people lack in adipose tissue. Adipose tissue is chiefly composed of fat.

Fat is derived from the oily constituents of food.

The fat-making foods are called by the physiologist, hydrocarbons. This class of foods are not digested in the stomach at all. They are digested in the duodenum, the division of the alimentary canal just below the stomach.

The digestion of fat is mainly, if not wholly, the work of the pancreatic juice. This juice is of alkaline reaction, and is rendered inert by the addition of acid. A hyperacidity of the digestive fluids of the stomach passing down into the duodenum, destroys the pancreatic fluid for digestive purposes. Therefore, the fats are not digested or emulsified, and the system is deprived of its due proportion of oily constituents. Hence, the patient grows thin.

The beginning of the trouble is a catarrhal condition of the stomach which causes hyperacidity of the gastric juices. This hyperacidity is caused by fermentation of food in the stomach. When the food is taken into the stomach, if the process of digestion does not begin immediately, acid fermentation will take place. This creates a hyperacidity of the stomach juices which in their turn prevent the pancreatic digestion of the oils, and the emaciation results.

A dose of Peruna before each meal hastens the stomach digestion. By hurrying digestion, Peruna prevents fermentation of the contents of the stomach, and the pancreatic juices thus preserved in its normal state. It then only remains for the patient to eat a sufficient amount of fat-forming foods, and the thinness disappears and plumpness takes its place.

IMPRESSED THE LITTLE ONE.

Department of Colored Gentleman a Matter of Admiration.

Little Elsie, who had recently returned from a visit to Washington, was describing to her companion some of the wonderful things she had observed in the Capitol City.

"One evening," said she, breathlessly, "papa took me to have supper at a grand hotel where the dining room was awfully big, and at the tables around us sat great senators and representatives with their wives, all drinking champagne!"

"I suppose the manners of these great persons were perfect?" ventured her companion, with widened eyes.

"Yes," returned Elsie. "But," she added, with a sudden burst of enthusiasm, "the department of the colored gentlemen who served the wine was perfectly beautiful!"

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube is inflamed, it has a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

STORM IS FURIOUS

HAVOC BY WIND AND HAIL IN WISCONSIN AND MINNESOTA.

WASHOUTS ON RAILROADS

Buildings Damaged and Trees Uprooted at Prairie du Chien—La Crosse Chautauqua Tent Blown Down.

Prairie du Chien.—A terrific rain, hail and wind storm late Saturday night, lasting 40 minutes, during 25 minutes of which fell hail, ruined all the crops, unroofed buildings, smashed all windows in buildings facing the west and northwest, demolished trees, put the city light plant out of commission, blew the telephone systems all down and flooded the streets with water and hail.

La Crosse reports that a terrific wind and hail storm swept from Winona down the Mississippi to Dubuque. The wind did considerable damage near Lakota, Minn., between Winona and La Crosse.

The big tent in which the Chautauqua is being held at the La Crosse Interstate fair grounds was blown down burying 1,500 people underneath. None, however, were seriously injured, although many were painfully bruised. Capt. R. P. Hobson was the principal attraction at the Chautauqua for the day, but he had left the tent before the storm broke.

St. Paul, Minn.—Specials to the Pioneer Press give additional details of the destruction wrought by the wind and hail storm Saturday in the southern part of the state. A mile of track was washed out on the Northwestern line between Worthington, Minn., and Sioux Falls, S. D. In the vicinity of Lake Washington the hail broke every north window and piled up on the inside of the houses. Near Pettis hail drifted to the depth of 12 inches and killed young live stock.

Milwaukee.—Reports to the train dispatchers of the railroads entering here indicate that there was no loss in Saturday night's storm, though there will be delay in traffic owing to the washouts. Prairie du Chien is cut off west of Wauzeka. Dispatches report that the washouts included several miles on the river division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Burlington roads.

CRIME OF AGED HUSBAND.

Breaks His Wife's Skull and Attempts His Own Life.

Cleveland, O.—John Kelly, 75 years old, a retired contractor and real estate dealer, fatally wounded his wife Margaret, 73 years of age, the police assert early Sunday in their home. Kelly then tried to commit suicide by beating out his brains with a hatchet, the weapon used upon his wife. Mrs. Kelly is at a hospital with a fractured skull. Kelly, although severely hurt, will recover.

Within a few days the couple would have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They prepared to go to church Sunday morning and the quarrel came when Kelly accused his wife, it is alleged, of drawing upon their savings account without his knowledge. Kelly, the police state, seized the hatchet and beat his helpmeet fiercely with it. A daughter returning from church found her father battering himself and went for assistance. Both the aged people were unconscious when the neighbors arrived.

EXCURSION TRAIN WRECKED.

Engine Goes into River But no One Is Injured.

Sandusky, O.—A Lake Erie & Western excursion train, outward bound from Sandusky, ran into an open drawbridge two miles from this city Sunday. The engine toppled into the shallow water, the crew escaping injury. None of the coaches followed the engine, and no one was injured.

The train was proceeding slowly and is said to have been heavily loaded with passengers.

NEW AERODROME SUCCEEDS.

Curtiss "Junebug" Makes Three Flights at Hammondsburg, N. Y.

Hammondsburg, N. Y.—Three successful flights, one of which is said to be the longest ever made in public by a flying machine in America, were accomplished Sunday by the new aerodrome No. 3, known as the Curtiss "Junebug." The aerodrome in its last flight of the day rose smartly from the ground and covered a distance of 1,266 feet at the rate of 34½ miles an hour.

Match for Burns in Melbourne.

Melbourne, Australia.—A syndicate has arranged a match between "Bill" Lang, the champion of Australia, and "Tommy" Burns, the American heavyweight champion, during the week the American fleet is here.

Battleships Are Gathering.

San Francisco.—Assembling of the Atlantic fleet of 16 warships and six auxiliaries in this harbor, for the start on July 7 on the voyage around two-thirds of the world, from San Francisco to Hampton Roads, already has begun. Seven of the battleships, including the flagship of Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, the Connecticut, are here and all of the auxiliaries are in this vicinity. Besides the Connecticut, the battleships in the harbor are the Louisiana, Ohio, Minnesota, Kansas, Vermont and Georgia.

GREAT Fourth of July Sale

CELEBRATION is the order of the day. Celebration of the day when our great nation gained her independence. Celebration is also the order of the day at our new and up-with-the-times store. Celebration of the success that has been ours since the moment the doors of our new store were thrown open to the public. What makes a man feel more desire to celebrate than the fact that when he put the people's confidence in him to a test they with one accord stood shoulder to shoulder with him proving his assertion to be true that the man who knows how to buy will enjoy the patronage of the people.

Onward is our watchword, never thinking of retreat;
And the man who always prospers does not know the word defeat.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS.

ANTIOCH, ILLINOIS.

A REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPER.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY

A. B. JOHNSON, Editor and Proprietor

By Mail, One Dollar per Year, in Advance

Telephone, Antioch No. 402.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The government of Japan has been notified by the Canadian government that the limit of emigrants allowed for one year has been reached, and that no more laborers should be sent to Canada before January 1st of next year. This is in accordance with the understanding reached last year, which provided that not more than 400 each year should be sent.

It is only natural that Wall Street just now should pay more attention to politics than to anything else. However, there have been some current developments of consequence, but the most important helpful elements, and the prospects are bright indeed, emanate from the crop situation. One estimate has it that this year's farm products will probably go up to the stupendous total of an eight billion dollar value. This forecast is the official calculation of the national Department of Agriculture.

There have been few Republican national conventions at which the causes for friction have been so few and so trivial as this year at Chicago. Secretary Taft lifted the contest to a dignified and friendly plane when he rendered his decision to make no effort to invade the "favorite son" States. Each aspirant has had a fair chance, and the Taft majority in the convention can be truly said to represent the wishes of the great mass of Republican voters all over the United States.

The amount of wealth represented at the convention in Chicago is enormous. A scrutiny of the list of delegates and national committeemen shows a conservative number of at least sixty-three millionaires, and there are numerous others who might prove if the secrets of their investments were known, not only millionaires but multimillionaires. On an average figure of $3,000,000 for those in the millionaire class alone, the wealth represented in Chicago last week totals some $189,000,000.

The seizure of a lot of cartridges which were about to be shipped into Cuba surreptitiously for insurrectionary purpose is cause for the most earnest gratification, and if the whole scoundrelly plot can be exposed and those responsible for it can be punished, gratification will be increased. Such plots against the peace and order of Cuba are two-fold treasonable; treason against Cuba in their intention to embarrass the provisional government of that island and to prevent the establishment of its permanent government; and treason against the United States, morally at least, as they are attempts to defeat its policy and to engage it in undesirable complications. Governor Magoon is competent to attend to the Cuban end of the business, and we are of the opinion that the authorities in the United States will attend to the other end with efficiency.

The Black Hand in Art.

One of the methods by which the thrifty Camorro maintains itself on its native Italian heath is the opera claque. Whenever a notable "guest" performance, or debut, is projected, the interested artist is approached and informed that unless the claque is placated a stormy debut may be looked for, and brave, indeed, is the man or woman who can contemplate appearing before a strange public with the certainty that no opportunity will be lost for hisses, hootings, and catcalls. In the great majority of cases the Black Hand treasury is substantially swelled.

Save the Plant.

A cheap way to keep house plants free from disease is to put a foot in a pail of water, let the contents settle and use a very weak solution for watering plants. Soot is a valuable fungicide.

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of their digestive juices that destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take promptly, but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol For Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by J. H. Swan.

Defense of the Surgeon.

In a recent lecture at the Harvard Medical school Dr. Maurice H. Richardson set forth the absolute need of resorting to the knife in certain cases. The idea that the surgeon lacks sensibility and is more or less indifferent to human suffering and may even perform an operation when not absolutely necessary he declared to be all wrong. He said that the contrary was shown by the fact that the surgeon is constantly laboring to make his profession unnecessary by preventing the recurrence of the diseases for which he operates, as well as by endeavoring to cure without resorting to operation. "A popular delusion that the surgeon is simply looking for an opportunity to keep busy all the time," Dr. Richardson added, "results in thousands of deaths of sufferers who are persuaded by friends not to submit to operation, until it is too late to save the patient."

Stomach troubles are very common in the summer time, and you should not only be very careful about what you eat just now, but more than this, you should be careful not to allow your stomach to become disordered, and when the stomach goes wrong take Kodol. This is the best known preparation that is offered to the people today for dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble. Kodol digests all foods. It is pleasant to take. It is sold here by J. H. Swan.

Ta-Ra-Ra's.

Country Cousin (at telephone)—Good-by, Cousin Bob! I've had a lovely time in New York; sorry not to have seen you, though.
Cousin Bob—I am, too, Mabel; but never mind; the next time you come I'll show you a good time. I'll buy you some cocktails.
Country Cousin—Cocktails? What are they? Do they wear them on hats?
Cousin Bob—No; they're head ornaments.

An American Venice.

It is a surprising thing to know that New York city, although not known as the American Venice, contains more islands than any city but Venice, for within its boundaries are 31 separate and distinct islands, most of which, encircled by deep water, will afford unlimited shipping accommodations, and dockage for the commerce of future years, to reach undreamed-of proportions, judging from past and present growth.—The "Giant City New York," National Magazine.

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it "Spring Fever". But there is no fever—usually. It is the after effect of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired, worn nerves leave us languid, listless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The restorative of won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that "tired spot". Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, frees sluggish livers and kidneys, and brings new life, strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by J. H. Swan

WAS THE BURGLAR'S UNDOING.

Marauder S. pped on Squeaky Board, and the Rest Was Easy.

At the top of the stairway in the Grigson dwelling there was a board that emitted a loud creak whenever anybody stepped on it. Mr. Grigson was always intending to "have the thing fixed," but never did it, and by common consent the members of the family usually stepped over it, particularly when the head of the family had gone to bed.
One night, very late, just as Mr. Grigson was dropping off to sleep, somebody stepped on that board, and it gave forth its customary loud protest.
"There you go again!" he angrily called out. "That's you this time, John! Pretty time of night for you to be getting to bed!"
John, the eldest son, made no response, but instead there was a rush and a jump down the stairs that brought the whole household into the hall just in time to hear the front door slam. A hurried investigation disclosed a bag of valuables which a frightened burglar had left.
The board still squeaks.—Youth's Companion.

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitter," writes Mr. Frank Conlan of No 496 Houston St., New York.
"It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at J. H. Swan drug store. 50c.

The Diet.

Do not destroy the digestion by being careless about food. Eat good, easily digested food at regular hours. Let milk, eggs, fruit and vegetables enter largely into the diet. The heavy meal of the day ought to come in the evening when there is time to rest after it.

Thinks It Saved his Life.

Lester M. Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would not more be without a bottle than I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at J. H. Swan's drug store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF

The Eighth Senatorial District

I desire to announce that I shall be a candidate for the Lower House of Representatives of the General Assembly, from the Eighth Senatorial District, subject to the Republican Primaries to be held August 8, 1908.

In the 44th General Assembly, 1905, and the 45th General Assembly, 1907—in substantially four sessions—the 8th Senatorial District and McHenry county have had the honor and the influence of filling the Speakership of the Lower House. How fairly or how poorly I have filled that position I can only leave to the judgment of others, upon the record, and to the opinion of those who have served in the House.

That there is a very good opportunity for the 8th Senatorial District and McHenry county to fill the position of Speaker in the Lower House for a third successive term, and that it is the request of many of the present members who are candidates for re-election, are the causes of my candidacy at the present time.

If elected, I shall vote upon the question of the United States Senatorship as instructed by the Republicans of this District, in the primaries of August 8th.

Very respectfully,

EDWARD D. SHURTLEFF.

The Secret of Success.

Each life should become conscious of its own individuality and responsibility, and pose itself on its own standing-ground. When a woman has learned that the center of the universe for her is where she stands, and has fully realized this idea of the central thought of being, she will comprehend that she can get no further than her own limitations, and must be controlled more or less by her own environment. To quote from Persian anthology: "Scoop thou ever so deep in river or fountain thou canst not but all the pitcher."

A Fable.

As they came out of church, so impressed was Brown with Rev. Dr. Bishop's discourse on the problems of life in this sad world that he could not forbear exclaiming: "Beautiful, beautiful!" Said his wife: "I think you are a very poor judge. The rim is entirely too large, and those flowers are very, very unbecoming!"—Judge.

SURVIVED THE LOSS OF BRAIN.

Brooklyn Man Lost Four Ounces as Result of Injury.

With his brain smaller by four ounces than when he fired a bullet into his head on April 3, Jacob Ritz within a few days will be discharged, cured, from St. Mary's hospital in Brooklyn, says the New York Press. His case has drawn the attention of physicians from all parts of the city. The hospital doctors said the recovery was one of the most remarkable on record.

It was thought that even if Ritz survived he would lose sight and taste, as the bullet passed through the part of the brain controlling these senses. Repeated tests, however, have shown his sight has not been impaired and that his taste is as sensitive as ever.

A bullet plowed through Ritz's brain, fracturing the skull on both sides and passing through the frontal lobes. He lay unconscious for several days. A tumor formed between the brain and skull and pressed upon the injured lobes. A rubber tube was inserted in the bullet hole in the right temple and the tumor was drained off. Before Ritz began to recover the physicians removed, through the bullet hole, part of his brain, weighing in all about four ounces.

Psychology and Religion.

We venture to say that the time has come when the church must enter more deeply into the personal lives of people and make a freer use of the means of modern science and the gospel of Christ placed at her disposal if she is to continue even to hold her own. . . . The teachings of modern psychology and physiology as to the essential unity of human nature and the mutual relations of mind and body have sunk so deep into the popular conscience that the church can no longer address men as disembodied spirits, and no scheme of salvation causes the heart to beat with hope which does not include the whole man, and which does not begin now. . . . If the nineteenth century was materialistic and critical, the first half of the twentieth century promises to be mystical and spiritual.—Rev. Dr. Elwood Worcester, in "Religion and Medicine."

Cat Adopted Woodchucks.

On the same day that a litter of kittens was drowned at the home of Frank Plotts, near Inez, Pa., Mr. Plott's sons killed a woodchuck in the woods near the house and brought home from the animal's nest four young "chucks." These were offered to the mother cat, and to the surprise of the family she carried them to her bed and has since mothered them.

Appearances.

"One day down in Texas," said a civil engineer, "I was sitting on the porch of my hotel with a fresh youngster from the north. On his right sat a plain old man, smoking a cob pipe with the kernels left on it.

"Ye gods," said my friend; "what do you think of that for nerve. Sitting right up against a gentleman and puffing his old dope right in my face. Here, you, clear out with that pipe. Move clear over on the other side so the smoke won't blow this way. You are making a nuisance of yourself."

"All right," said the old man, meekly. "I'll move."

"He did so. 'John,' said I, 'do you know who that old gentleman is you talked to like that?'"

"Nope, don't know and don't care."

"That is the governor of Texas," it really was."

The New Servant's Statement.

"Bridget," cautioned the mistress one afternoon lately, "if any one calls to see me tell her I'm out. I'm too tired to see any one."

Accordingly a little later a very dear friend who appeared at the front door received this incomprehensible answer to her inquiry if Mrs. Blank was in.

"No, she ain't, mum; an' phat's more, she says she's so tired she wint blind."

A True Story.

"On my travels in Venezuela," said a New York man, "I stayed in a hotel with a young man in whose family there was the taint of leprosy, though he apparently did not have it. One night sitting at dinner he became angry at a waiter and brought his hand down on the table with full force. He instantly realized that he did not feel the blow, and sat looking at his hand, his face whitening with horror. 'Give me your knife, Bob,' he said to his chum. He grabbed the pocket knife in a frenzy and stabbed the side of his hand with vicious cuts from finger tip to wrist. You may not know that leprosy appears in the side of the hand, numbness being a sign. The man did not feel the cuts. He arose from the table, knocking over his chair, rushed out into the courtyard of the hotel, and we heard the quick tang of a revolver shot, telling us how he had conquered the leper's curse by ending his life."

Great June Clearance Sale

An Absolute Clearance of all lines of Spring and Summer Merchandise at Prices that will Arouse the Keenest Interest

I

It is the common rule among the most of merchants to hold their summer stock reducing sales in the month of July. The Globe's policy is entirely different. We realize that by the time July arrives the majority of people have already supplied their summer needs, that the time to reduce stock and reduce it to a minimum is right when the people want the goods. Looking at it from this standpoint the Globe holds its summer clearance sale in the month of June, practically the very time when your needs are the greatest. By so doing we are enabled to effect an absolute clearance—a complete riddance—of all lines before the approach of the fall season, thus making room for a fresh supply of strictly all new styles, and to show these things at a much earlier date than would otherwise be possible. The radical slaughter of prices that we have made on all lines of merchandise throughout this entire establishment will awaken the buying interest of every economical person in Lake County. The savings are greater than at any clearance sale the Globe has previously held. You cannot afford to miss this marvelous bargain opportunity.

This Great Clearance Sale Commences Thursday Morning, June 25, at 9:00 o'clock and continues until 10:00 o'clock Friday Night, June 3

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET

For President.

For Vice-President.

TAFT AS PRESIDENT; SHERMAN FOR MATE, IS REPUBLICAN SLATE

Convention at Chicago Selects Na- tional Ticket and Adjourns==Wild Enthusiasm on Nomination of Ohioan==Demonstration for Theodore Roosevelt

Chicago. — Taft and Sherman. This is the ticket of the Republican party slung to the breeze Friday as the Republican national convention concluded with the nomination of James S. Sherman of New York for vice-president amid a final roar of tumultuous demonstration.

Scene of Wild Enthusiasm. The picture within the walls of the vast amphitheater as the presidential candidate was named Thursday was one truly gradiose in its magnitude. In front, to the right and left, below and above, the billowing sea of humanity, restless after hours of waiting and stirred from one emotion to another, was in a fever of expectancy for the culminating vote. The favorite sons of other states had been named, save Knox and La Follette, and now on the roll call came Ohio.

As the Buckeye state was reached, the tall, gaunt form of Theodore E. Burton, with student-like face and severe black clerical garb, advanced to the platform to nominate Ohio's candidate. He spoke fervently, with the ringing voice of an evangelist, which went ringing through the great building. The close of his speech of nomination was the signal for loosing the long pent-up feeling of the Taft legions. Instantly the Ohio delegates were on their feet, other Taft states following, while the convention hosts, in gallery and on floor, broke into mad demonstration. For 10, 15, 20 minutes, this uproar continued. At last the tired voices died down to a hoarse shout, and subsided.

Seconded by Knight. This roll now gave the opportunity for the speech seconding Taft's nomination, by George H. Knight of California, his big, round face beaming forth on the sympathetic multitude, and his splendid baritone voice welling forth like the tones of a great church organ. California's tribute to Taft was brief and fervid. Now there was another lull in the Taft movement, while the remaining candidates were placed in nomination.

It was late in the afternoon before the convention, now literally sweltering with the intense heat and weary after nearly seven hours of continuous session, reached the end of the flood of eloquence and the decks were at last cleared for the culminating act.

Demonstration for La Follette. But, no; just as the last swell of oratory, the seconding speech for La Follette, had died away, like a cyclone from a clear sky burst a La Follette demonstration which swept the convention from its very bearings. It was the same deafening wave of sound that had greeted Roosevelt Wednesday and Taft a little while before, intense and maddening and with the vital ring of genuine enthusiasm. It seemed as though Wisconsin had suddenly peopled every foot of the galleries. The delegates sat calm and waiting, except the frantic Wisconsin, but the convention for the time being was in the possession of the galleries.

Now a singular transformation occurred—gradually the whirlwind veered from La Follette to Roosevelt.

Amid this pandemonium, and with the galleries in full control, Chairman Lodge decided upon heroic action in order again to make the convention master of its affairs. He ordered the roll call of states to begin for the vote on president. Such a call, under such circumstances of intense confusion, has probably never before occurred in the history of national conventions. The secretary was powerless to make his call of the states heard above the deafening clamor. Seizing a megaphone he shouted the roll of states—Alabama, Arkansas—but his voice was swallowed up in the mad uproar. Gradually, however, the curiosity of the multitude conquered their enthusiasm, and they lapsed into silence to hear the result of the roll call.

A hush of expectancy hung over the assembly as the roll proceeded. Hasty summaries showed that Taft was far in advance. When New York was reached the Taft column totaled 427. Ohio carried the Taft total to 511, or 20 more than enough to nominate. Still the roll went on until the final result was announced by Chairman Lodge:

"For Theodore Roosevelt, 3 votes; for Joseph B. Foraker of Ohio 16 votes; for Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, 40 votes; for Joseph Cannon of Illinois, 61 votes; for Robert La Follette of Wisconsin, 25 votes; for Charles E. Hughes of New York, 63 votes; for Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, 68 votes, and William H. Taft of Ohio, 702 votes.

A great shout went up as Lodge concluded his announcement, and with one accord the cohorts of Cannon and Knox and Hughes and the other heroes, joined in a common tribute for the candidate of the party.

Sherman for Second Place. The nomination for the vice-presidency was not made until Friday. When the convention adjourned for the day Thursday the situation regarding second place on the ticket was decidedly unsettled, but before the delegates met Friday an arrangement had been perfected for the Taft delegates to support Representative James S. Sherman of New York as the running mate of the secretary of war.

Three names were placed in nomination when the chairman announced that nominations were in order. Sherman was named as New York's choice by Tim Woodruff, former lieutenant governor of the state; Gov. Curtis Guild of Massachusetts was placed in nomination by Senator Lodge, and Ex-Gov. Franklin Murphy of New Jersey was named by Thomas N. McCarter. Several brief seconding speeches were made for each candidate.

When the roll call was begun it was soon seen that Sherman was the popular choice of the delegates. When enough votes had been cast to insure his nomination Senator Crane of Massachusetts moved that it be made unanimous and it was carried with a shout of approval.

The usual motions of acknowledgment to the officers of the convention and to the city in which it was held were then passed.

Judson W. Lyon of Georgia was recognized to make the motion to adjourn without day. It was put into effect at 11:47 a. m. The band played "The Star-Spangled Banner," the delegates rapidly left the hall and the convention of 1908 had made its way into history.

Roosevelt Demonstration. The second day of the Republican national convention brought the long-expected Roosevelt yell, a whirlwind of enthusiasm which raged within the vast amphitheater of the Coliseum for full 45 minutes Wednesday, and for a time pressed to the timid the specter of a Roosevelt stampede.

This demonstration was decidedly the feature of a day otherwise notable for a stirring speech from the permanent chairman of the convention, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, for much practical procedure in placing the convention on a smooth running basis, and for the final defeat of the plan to reduce the representation of southern states at future national conventions.

Mr. Lodge early in his address launched his sentence which electrified the assemblage into its first real demonstration of wild enthusiasm. "The president," exclaimed Mr. Lodge, "is the best abused and most popular man in the United States today."

This was the long awaited signal. Instantly a shout broke from the galleries and was echoed back from the floor, at first only a tempest of detached yells, and cat-calls, and shouts of "Teddy," but gradually gathering force and volume until it swelled to a whirlwind of sound and motion, as delegates and spectators rose en masse, mounting chairs, waving banners, hats, handkerchiefs, flags, newspapers, anything which could be seized upon to add turbulence to the scene.

PLATFORM AT A GLANCE.

Roosevelt.—The abuse of wealth, the tyranny of power, and the evils of privilege and favoritism have been put to scorn by him. We pledge a continuation of the Roosevelt policies.

Anti-Injunction.—

The Republican party will uphold the authority of the courts, but believes the rules of procedure in federal courts with respect to injunctions should be more accurately defined by statute, and that no injunction should be issued without notice.

Labor.—The same wise policy will be pursued to lighten the burdens of all who toil.

Tariff.—The Republican party declares for a revision of tariff by a special session of congress. We favor the establishment of maximum and minimum rates.

Money.—An expanding commerce... disclose the need of a more elastic and adaptable system.

Trusts.—The government should have greater supervision over corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

Inland Waterways.—We call for a large and comprehensive plan to improve the waterways, harbors, and great lakes.

Army and Navy.—While the American people do not desire and will not provoke a war with any other country, we nevertheless declare our devotion to a policy which will keep this republic ready at all times to defend her traditional doctrines.

Good Roads.—We approve the efforts of the agricultural department in good road construction.

Negroes.—We condemn all devices for the disfranchisement of the negro.

Republican Policy.—The difference between Democracy and Republicanism is that one stands for vaccination and mildity in government, the other for strength and purpose. Democracy would have the nation own the people, while Republicanism would have the people own the nation.

VETERAN OF THREE WARS.

A Pioneer of Colorado and Nebraska.

Matthias Campbell, veteran of the Civil War and two Indian wars, and a pioneer of Colorado, now living at 218 East Nebraska street, Blair, Neb., says: "I had such pains in my back for a long time that I could not turn in bed, and at times there was an almost total stoppage of the urine. My wife and I have both used Doan's Kidney Pills for what doctors diagnosed as advanced kidney troubles, and both of us have been completely cured."

ECZEMA ALL OVER HIM.

No Night's Rest for a Year and Limit of His Endurance Seemed Near—Owes Recovery to Cuticura.

"My son Clyde was almost completely covered with eczema. Physicians treated him for nearly a year without helping him any. His head, face, and neck were covered with large scabs which he would rub until they fell off. Then blood and matter would run out and that would be worse. Friends coming to see him said that if he got well he would be disgraced for life. When it seemed as if he could possibly stand it no longer, I used some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. That was the first night for nearly a year that he slept. In the morning there was a great change for the better. In about six weeks he was perfectly well. Our leading physician recommends Cuticura for eczema. Mrs. Aley Cockburn, Shiloh, O., June 11, 1907."

One of Bill Nye's. Referring to a real estate transaction made by one Peter Minuit, way back in the year 1628, Bill Nye, in his history of the United States, declared:

"New York was afterwards sold for $24; the whole island. When I think of this I go into my family gallery, which I also use as a swear room, and tell those ancestors what I think of them. Where were they when New York sold for $24?"

The humor of this strikes deeply when one stops to consider what has been the outcome of this original investment. Peter Minuit, with trinkets and a few bottles of rum, so delighted the native Indians that they gladly turned over to him the whole of Manhattan Island, now the heart of Greater New York—"New York, the Giant City," National Magazine.

He Had Broken Something.

Mrs. Wilson had a young Japanese servant who had a habit of trying to conceal from his mistress any breakage of dishes of which he chanced to be guilty. The good lady explained that it was wicked to deceive, and directed the Japanese to tell her whenever he broke anything. The boy promised to do as she advised. One day, while Mrs. Wilson was entertaining some friends in the parlor, the Japanese suddenly appeared in the doorway. His teeth were bared in a childlike smile, and his eyes sparkled with the light of conscious virtue.

"Meesa Wilson, you ter-ra me, when break somesing to ter-ra you, I break my pants!"—Success Magazine.

Grape-Nuts a Perfectly Balanced Food.

No chemist's analysis of Grape-Nuts can begin to show the real value of the food—the practical value as shown by personal experience.

It is a food that is perfectly balanced, supplies the needed elements of brain and nerves in all stages of life from the infant, through the strenuous times of active middle life, and is a comfort and support in old age.

"For two years I have used Grape-Nuts with milk and a little cream, for breakfast. I am comfortably hungry for my dinner at noon."

"I use little meat, plenty of vegetables and fruit in season, for the noon meal, and if tired at tea time, take Grape-Nuts alone and feel perfectly nourished."

"Nerve and brain power, and memory are much improved since using Grape-Nuts. I am over sixty and weigh 155 lbs. My son and husband seeing how I have improved, are now using Grape-Nuts."

"My son, who is a traveling man, eats nothing for breakfast but Grape-Nuts and a glass of milk. An aunt, over 70, seems fully nourished on Grape-Nuts and cream." "There's a Reason."

Business Amounts to Something.

Last year Brazil needed over 20,000,000 jute bags to hold the year's coffee production. Each bag costs the shippers a trifle over 18 cents. The business of making coffee bags thus amounted last year to nearly $4,000,000.

"Mrs. Pinkham, of the Lyda E. Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., together with her son, Arthur W. Pinkham, and the younger members of her family, sailed for Naples on May 20th for a three months' tour throughout Europe and a much needed vacation."

Lotteries Pay Big Dividends.

Nearly $100,000 is spent in Mexico City every week on lottery tickets and in the same period only about $70,000 is paid back in premiums.

MOTOR VEHICLES

A MOTOR VEHICLE is to-day practically a necessity, and one of the greatest of conveniences. The W. H. Kiblinger Co., Auburn, Indiana, have produced motor vehicles that will stand the wear and tear of country roads, are high enough to ride over ruts, etc., where necessary, light and graceful in design, simple in construction and at the same time strong enough to last for years with ordinary care. They are also cheap enough to bring them within the reach of anyone of ordinary means.

The Kiblinger Motor Vehicles will go anywhere at any time. They never get tired, never get sick. Will run 30 miles on a gallon of Gasoline. Speed, 4 to 30 miles an hour. Air cooled, good the year 'round with no danger from punctured tires, or from freezing of water in the cylinders. Let us send you our complete catalogue, showing pictures of the different styles we make, with complete descriptions of each and prices. Fully guaranteed. Ask for catalogue Number 41.

America's Peril.
Every foreign observer believes that the grand struggle between the "Haves" and the "Have-nots" which is to mark this century will be fought out first of all upon American soil.—London Spectator.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is the one that children like so well to take as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It is different from the others as it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts gently yet freely on the bowels and thereby it drives the cold out of the system. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Electricity from Human Body.
That electricity, heat and ether are one and the same fluid is the assertion of Frederick Hovendon of London, who also claims that every person exhales electricity from the finger tips and that he can take moving pictures of the process. To do this he fills a square glass box with cigarette smoke, mixed with air. The experimenter thrusts a finger through a hole in the bottom of the glass box and a powerful arc lamp is turned on. The ether or electricity is immediately seen issuing from the finger tips and photographed.—Popular Mechanics.

Different.
The dominie had said grace, when the four-year-old daughter of the hostess looked up and said: "That's not the kind of grace my papa says." "No!" asked the minister, "what kind does he say?" "Why, last night he just said: 'Good Lord, what a supper.'"

Motto from Ruskin.
"Try to get strength of heart to look yourself fairly in the face in mind as well as body. I do not doubt that the mind is a less pleasant thing to look at than the face, and for that very reason it needs more looking at; so always have two mirrors on your toilet table and see that with proper care you dress body and mind before them daily."

Benefit of Laughter.
Laughter stirs up the blood, expands the chest, electrifies the nerves, clears away the cobwebs from the brain and gives the whole system a shock to which the voltaic pile is as nothing.—William Matthews.

Big cuts or little cuts, small scratches or bruises or big ones are healed quickly by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is especially good for piles. Be sure to get DeWitt's. Sold by J. H. Swan.
